Do not overlook:

Question: I have a problem with my Online Application Form. It notifies me that my birth code is already occupied. What should I do?

Answer: Birth code is assigned to an e-mail. You can find out to what e-mail address the birth code belongs. You can do following two things:

1. You can either login to Online Application Form by that e-mail address and you fill in the application form there. If you forgot your password, go to page Forgotten password.
2. Or if this is your old e-mail address you no longer use, request a change of personal data in Online Application Form (as instructed above). Write down your former e-mail address, new e-mail address, birth code, and whether you are a student or were a student at UP.

Our administrator will assign your new e-mail address to your birth code.
